

Purpose

The purpose of this fact sheet is to provide information about the College of Licensed Practical Nurses of Manitoba's (CLPNM) requirements for criminal record checks, child abuse registry checks and adult abuse registry checks. Together, these three checks are referred to as suitability checks.

Why are suitability checks required?

The CLPNM's legislated duty is to regulate the profession of practical nursing in a manner that serves and protects the public interest. In keeping with this duty, the CLPNM has a responsibility to identify whether applicants or members of the profession have a history of conduct that may place the public at risk.

Who must submit suitability checks to the CLPNM?

All applicants must provide suitability checks as part of their first application to the CLPNM. These checks are also required when former members of the profession apply to reinstate their registration with the CLPNM. LPNs must also provide the CLPNM with updated suitability checks on a periodic basis, approximately once every five years. LPNs wanting to access more detailed information on this requirement can click here for CLPNM's Periodic Suitability Check FAQ.

The CLPNM has directed me to provide suitability checks. What documents must I provide?

You must provide all of the following:

- A criminal record check that is based on a Canada-wide search, and which includes a vulnerable sector search;
- A Manitoba-issued child abuse registry check; and
- A Manitoba-issued adult abuse registry check.

To be accepted as valid, each of these documents must have been issued by the relevant government authority within six months of the date they are submitted to the CLPNM.

How must I submit the documentation to the CLPNM?

If you are an LPN who has been selected to supply your suitability checks as part of the periodic suitability check program, you will be required to upload your documents into your online profile. You must upload the front and back of each of your documents. Please click here for additional information.

Why must I submit abuse registry checks as well as a criminal record check?

Manitoba's Adult and Child Abuse Registries record the names of individuals who have been found, by the government body responsible for those registries, to have abused or neglected a vulnerable person. In some cases, the name of an individual may be added to the registry even if the individual has not been convicted of a criminal offence. The CLPNM must be aware of this information because, even if the individual does not have a criminal record, the information may have a bearing on the individual's suitability to practise as a practical nurse.

How do I apply for the required documentation?

Child abuse registry checks must be obtained from the Manitoba Child Abuse Registry. The registry provides the option to apply online, by mail, or in person. Please visit their website for details: https://www.gov.mb.ca/fs/childfam/child_abuse_registry.html

Adult abuse registry checks must be obtained from the Manitoba Adult Abuse Registry. It also provides the option to apply online, by mail, or in person. Please visit their website for details: https://www.gov.mb.ca/fs/pwd/adult_abuse_registry.html

A criminal record check with a vulnerable sector search can be obtained from your local police service. Note that, if you are a resident of the City of Winnipeg, the Winnipeg Police Service (WPS) provides you with the option of applying in-person or online. Also note that the WPS website refers to a criminal record check as a police information check. Please visit their website for details: <http://www.winnipeg.ca/police/pr/pic.stm#pic>

If you live outside of Winnipeg please contact your local police service or visit their website for information on how to apply as each police service may have a different process.

I have been directed to provide a certified criminal record check based on fingerprinting. Why?

If your initial criminal record check shows adverse information, such as a match or a possible match to a charge or a conviction, the CLPNM will direct you to submit a certified criminal record check based on fingerprinting. This second check, which compares fingerprints, is required to confirm that the charge or conviction noted in the first check is associated with you specifically, and not someone else with a similar name. Information on how to obtain a certified criminal record check based on fingerprinting is available on the RCMP website at: <http://www.rcmp-grc.gc.ca/en/steps-getting-a-certified-criminal-record-check>

When a criminal or child/adult abuse registry record is identified, the CLPNM carries out an assessment to determine the extent of the risk to the public, if any, before taking any further action. The full circumstances of each case will be considered. The CLPNM will gather further information from you before any decision about your registration is made. In some cases, the CLPNM may determine that authorization to practise does not place the public at risk. Each case is different and may result in a different outcome.

If your initial criminal record check reveals a charge or conviction, or you know that it likely will, it is in your interest to apply for a certified criminal record based on fingerprinting as soon as possible. The CLPNM will require you to submit one once it reviews the results of your initial check. It can take up to 150 days to receive this documentation, and the CLPNM may require a further six weeks to complete a full assessment. Applying for this documentation as soon as you know it will be needed may help you avoid delays that could affect your application.
